Flexible Bag Casers from Westfalia
Keep the Milk Moving
Packs Milk Pouches at High Speeds

YORK, Pa., May 7, 2009 – The flexible Bag Caser from Westfalia Deam Systems provides fast and smooth case loading for both liquid and powder filled bags. Capable of loading 80 bags per minute in either plastic dairy cases or corrugated cases, this compact caser is available in two models, to handle either 4 or 6 bags per case load. The equipment's all stainless steel construction makes it ideal for the wet conditions of dairy, juice and other beverage facilities.

Westfalia Deam Systems is the result of merging Deam Limited of Toronto, Canada, with Westfalia Technologies, Inc. of York, Pennsylvania in 2006. It is known throughout the industry for innovative, compact, custom designed case packing and handling equipment for the dairy and beverage industries. With a full team of mechanical, electrical and software engineers in-house, Westfalia designs beverage casing and handling systems to meet each client's specific needs. The flexible bag caser is the latest of a series of compact casers designed by Westfalia to case all size bottles, jugs, gallons, and creamer cups.

The Bag Caser is available with a touch screen operator HMI able to swivel 300 degrees, PLC controls with Nema 4/4X stainless steel panel, and can easily be installed over existing conveyors. Among the options available, are extensions to bag and case conveyors, and motor controls for incoming and case conveyors.

As with all Westfalia products, the Bag Caser is guaranteed to perform to the specification. Each piece is thoroughly tested (Factory Automation Tests) before shipping and installing at a customer's plant. And of course, Westfalia offers a complete service plan on all equipment to guarantee your peace of mind.

This Bag Caser is one part of the complete line of beverage case packing and case handling equipment available from Westfalia Deam Systems division.
